Fund Commentary¹

As of September 30, 2018

In the third quarter, the fund exceeded expectations by outperforming its benchmark in an up market. Stock selection was the main contributor to the relative outperformance, while partially offset by sector allocation. Stock selection within consumer discretionary, consumer staples, real estate and financials contributed mostly to the fund's performance. On the other hand, the large underweight in both health care and information technology, as well as the overweight in real estate and utilities detracted from performance.

From a country perspective, stock selection within Japan detracted from performance but was more than offset by stock selection within emerging markets, Developed Pacific ex-Japan and Developed Europe ex-UK. Conversely, the overweight in both Canada and Developed Pacific ex-Japan and underweight in U.S. detracted from performance.

Investment Risks

In addition to the normal risks associated with investing, international investments may involve risk of capital loss from unfavorable fluctuation in currency values, from differences in generally accepted accounting principles or from social, economic or political instability in other nations. Emerging markets involve heightened risks related to the same factors as well as increased volatility and lower trading volume. Investments in mid-size and smaller companies typically exhibit higher volatility. The Fund may invest in derivatives, which are often more volatile than other investments and may magnify the Fund's gains or losses. Not FDIC Insured • May Lose Value • No Bank Guarantee.
